

Fern Propagating Lecture and Workshop

at The Frelinghuysen Arboretum
353 East Hanover Avenue
Morris Township, NJ 07962

Tom Goforth, owner of Crow Dog Native Ferns and Gardens in South Carolina, is a well-known authority on native ferns. He researches fern ecology and plant community/geology correlations throughout the United States and consults widely on landscaping with native ferns. The morning lecture will consist of a presentation on fern history, taxonomy, morphology, ecology and landscaping ideas followed by a walk to the Marvin A. Eger Fern Garden. The afternoon lab session will focus on the details of fern taxonomy and morphology and involve close up examination of fronds from a large number of fern species as well as a spore propagation demonstration.

Saturday, June 4, register by May 21
Morning Lecture 9am – 11:30am
Afternoon Lab 1pm – 4pm

$45. members, $50. non-members $20. members, $25. non-members for Morning Lecture Only

Call 973.326.7603
to register