For January: Kids Get Cabin Fever Too!

This trio of shorts is sure to keep the short crowd engaged.
Appropriate for grades K-3

Ana in the Rainforest—Our heroine, young Ana, goes on an imaginary journey to a tropical rainforest to find a cure for her sick iguana.

Journey of the Blob—This wordless film illustrates the water cycle and tells an age appropriate cautionary tale about water pollution.

The Sandbox—This is urban planning for the sandbox set as two friends create a world in theirs. How did it get so overpopulated and noisy? Making a space for the wild creatures is the lesson here, charmingly taught in simple words and captivating animation.
